Sweet Wonders of Vienna _____

The grand tradition of Viennese pastry desserts lives on in the coffee houses of Vienna. But a 'Kleiner Brauner' – a demitasse of espresso with a dash of milk – is a perfect pleasure only when combined with a sweet Viennese delicacy. But time never stands still: more and more new creations are offering new trends in taste, pleasing the palate of the true epicurean.

Whom else could a genuine Viennese tradition derive from if not from the old Emperor himself? The Emperor, of course. "Franz Joseph I had a passion for sweets, thus in the late 19th century the best confectioners came to Vienna, bringing their recipes and making Vienna a metropole of pastry desserts." Herwig Gasser, pastry chef of the Querfeld coffee house dynasty (Café Landtmann, Café Mozart, etc.) would know. As author of the illustrated book entitled New Vienna Pastries, he has dealt in detail with the history of these Viennese specialities which for tradition-conscious guests form an essential accompaniment to any of the assorted coffee specialities in a genuine Viennese coffee house. And Gasser also vigorously argues that the roots of Viennese pastries are not found only in Bohemia. "We have strong influences from all of the former Crown lands. Thus in addition to Bohemian cuisine, Hungarian and Italian as well as French cuisine have contributed to the uniqueness of Vienna's confectionery culture."

The pastry cart in a Vienna coffee house today is still filled with the classics: Sachertorte, apple strudel, etc. will certainly not be absent. Yet in the last few years culinary innovators have also discovered pastries. Exotic fruits such as mango or passion fruit enrich the menu for the Viennese sweet tooth today, just as much as new variations of old specialities like apple stollen instead of apple strudel.

What almost all of the new creations have in common is the trend toward fewer calories. Pastries with less sugar, less flour and looser dough are far from diet fare meant to accompany the requisite coffee

Classic Viennese pastry art with completely new ingredients: the tasty and fluffy strawberry strudel (top) and the surprisingly light apple-cinnamon stollen (right) are worthy alternatives to the well-known delicacies such as Sachertorte and apple strudel.

Five Tips for the Curious Sweet Tooth

Strawberry Strudel

Garden-fresh strawberries with biscuit and vanilla yoghurt, wrapped in strudel dough and baked golden-brown. A treat for the palate especially in the strawberry season.

Raspberry Soufflé Torte

Juicy almond-chocolate crust, fruity raspberry mousse, light vanilla mousse and refreshing raspberries. Extremely light and very aromatic.

Hazelnut Soufflé Torte

Hazelnut mousse with Remy Martin on a hazelnut-orange base, garnished with whipped cream and crispy hazelnut croquant. Throughout the year for lovers of nut-nougat.

Chestnut Blossom

Crispy waffle shell with a light but extremely aromatic chestnut mousse, garnished with chestnut rice and amareno cherries. But watch out: dangerously high in calories.

Apple-Cinnamon Stollen

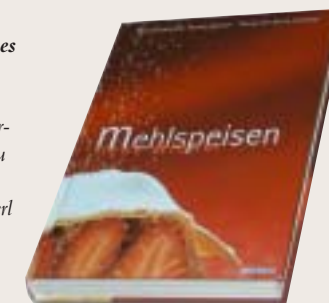

Fluffy apple-cinnamon mousse surrounded by a thin layer of tree cake and complemented by a delicate biscuit. Best in autumn when the apples are overripe.

To learn more: New Vienna Pastries

This splendid, illustrated volume by Herwig Gasser, with photos by Petra Schmidt, provides a comprehensive overview of new pastry delicacies which you should try in a coffee house. 286p., Euro37 in bookstores and at the Ketterl publishing house, Mauerbach.

Herwig Gasser in action: a master of confectionery seeking new directions in taste as a complement to the old pastry and coffee house tradition which has been handed down.

Wonders of the Orient

An evening in Aux Gazelles is a journey into another world. Oriental steam baths, the tea salon, bars and a first-class restaurant make Aux Gazelles an oasis of relaxation and indulgence in the heart of the city.

Actually, one should hardly dare to write about Aux Gazelles in a restaurant guide, but where else should it be done? It basically defies any categorization. Restaurant? Bar? Tea house? Steam bath? All of these together, perhaps. But in fact it's still much more. A luxurious oasis of comfort and well-being with an oriental flair minus the kitsch. A place to marvel at and feel comfortable, to see and be seen, as much as to retreat and shut off from the hectic, everyday life. In any case a location which has earned the title 'unique' perhaps more than any other in Vienna.

The lavishly designed and elegant Hammam has probably contributed the most to Aux Gazelles becoming an integral part of Viennese leisure and social life. There is an entire array of relaxation and beauty treatments available - but never in a rush: two hours should be allowed to be able to really enjoy the classic oriental steam bath. In the three temperature zones (35°, 40° and 45°) your stay won't become a world record steam bath and afterwards you'll have enough energy to be able to enjoy everything else Aux Gazelles has to offer.

And there's plenty of that. For gourmet food lovers the Brasserie is a must. Sumptuous different cuisines with French, Maghrebi and Arabic influences are combined in an innovative restaurant concept. With choice wines, candlelight and a view of the picturesque inner courtyard, unforgettable evenings can be enjoyed here.

In no way should the caviar and oyster bar be missed either. Here Aux Gazelles also guarantees top-notch quality and freshness, as well as both modern and traditional preparation.

And last but not least, if there's still a little time remaining, permit yourself another half hour in the tea salon.

One particular highlight is 'Orientation', the weekly Oriental Urban Club Night in Aux Gazelles. An event combining traditional Arabic hospitality and modern lifestyle in an unparalleled way. As many as 1000 guests regularly enjoy the mixture of traditional music and modern rhythms; a celebration in which belly-dancing is just as much a part as is a pulsing beat. Sensuality, ecstasy, Romanticism and modern trends create an incomparable total experience which should definitely not be missed.

Sinalco

A Cult Brand's Comeback

Practically vanished from the scene for years, cult beverages of the sixties and seventies are celebrating an extraordinary comeback: Sinalco Orange Soft Drink and Sinalco Cola. At the moment in supermarkets, but coming soon to numerous pubs, bars and restaurants.

In the seventies it was a catchy tune which could have made it into the hit-parade: a few bars of the Flea Waltz played to the slogan 'Sinalco tastes good' found a direct path from radio and TV advertising into people's heads. Sinalco was an absolute must-have then, especially among the young.

In the 70s and 80s the brand changed owners frequently. Sinalco was treated as a step-child and practically disappeared from the scene.

Only after the founding of the Deutsche Sinalco was the cult soft drink actively marketed again. Since the middle of the 90s, a medium-sized family business in Germany, the classic soft drink's country of origin, has been successful at remaking Sinalco what it once was, a virtual cult brand. With the unmistakable shape and characteristic red dot, the re-launch of Sinalco's legendary bottle has contributed significantly to its comeback. Both of these traditional Sinalco symbols are protected worldwide. Moreover, Sinalco has become the stadium drink in the most modern football arena of Europe, AufSchalke. Since then its resonance has been enormous and not only with the fans of the cult club Schalke 04. The superior taste is unmistakable as it was at the beginning of the 20th century. After all, Sinalco is the only international soft drink brand produced with natural mineral water.

The result: 80% of the people in Germany know Sinalco.

The company's 100 years of history began in 1902: a naturopath, Friedrich Eduard Bilz, created a new kind of refreshment, the Bilz Brause. He marketed the essence of homemade fruit extracts with the manufacturer Fritz Hartmann. Because there were many imitations, a distinctive brand name was needed. In 1905 a prize competition produced the name Sinalco, which stems from the Latin 'sine alcohole' ie without alcohol.

Shortly afterward it was exported all over the world, especially in the Middle East and South America. Today, Sinalco is once again found in over 50 of the world's countries, most recently in Austria.

Shopping - Tip

Sinalco has again been available in Austria since September. With 97 stores, the Merkur supermarkets are the flagship enterprises which have included the beverage in its product range throughout Austria. There will soon be several specialist beverage wholesalers to expand the marketing network to the restaurant business as well, for the interest in the cult brand Sinalco is immense.

Entdecken Sie die Welt der Technik!

Das Technische Museum Wien lädt seine Besucher zu einer Entdeckungsreise durch die Welt der Technik: Geboten wird ein umfangreiches und vielfältiges Programm an Führungen und Aktionen. Interaktive Medienstationen, Experimente zum Mitdenken und Mitmachen sowie bedeutende Exponate machen naturwissenschaftliche und geschichtliche Hintergründe buchstäblich "be-greifbar".

Der prächtige Jugendstilbau wurde unter der Regentschaft Kaiser Franz Josefs erbaut und verfügt heute über eine Ausstellungsfläche von 22.000 m².

Aktueller Tipp:

Der historisch einzigartige Hofsalonwagen der Kaiserin Elisabeth ist wieder im Museum zu besichtigen.

Blitze schleudern

Die Welt der Ladungen, Ströme und elektromagnetischen Felder wird in unserem Hochspannungsraum sichtbar – faszinierende technische Anwendungen lassen Blitze zucken und Haare zu Berge stehen. Hochspannungsvorführungen: Montag bis Freitag: 13.15 Uhr, Samstag und Sonntag: 15.30 Uhr

Interaktive 3-D-Welten im Technischen Museum Wien

Eintauchen in virtuelle Welten ist im innovativen Virtual-Reality-Theater möglich – Die Zuschauer begeben sich auf eine Reise durch die Geschichte der Virtualität, die mit 3-D-Panoramabild und Sechs-Kanal-Raumklang zu einem sinnlichen Vergnügen wird. Das VR-Theater im Technischen Museum Wien ist in dieser Form einzigartig.

Margareten on the path to becoming an exemplary inner-city district

For several years now our motto has stood for the spirit of revival – or Aufbruchsstimmung – which in the meantime has embraced the entire district. A diverse restaurant, pub and bar scene has established itself in 'the Fifth' over time and has contributed significantly to the awakening of a densely-built working-class district. Through the initiative of District Councillor Kurt Wimmer and his team, cultural life also found access into the venerable District Council Hall on Schönbrunner Straße. Throughout the year top-notch exhibitions are held here, for example a major display of works from Alfred Hrdlicka in October, 2003. But alternative culture also has its place – in the "Kulturzeile Wienzeile" circuit a colourful scene has established itself with Spektakel, Celeste and Café Rüdigerhof.

Have a great time in Margareten!

Vienna / Heurige

Heurige are typical Viennese wine taverns, usually located in the suburbs and the surroundings of Vienna. Many of them have kept their traditional atmosphere, but others, especially the big Heurige in Grinzing, have adopted to that which they believe what German, American and Japanese tourists want.

If a Heuriger calls itself a 'Buschenschank' it sells its own wine. It makes sense to ask if they are open, as a 'Weingut', 'Buschenschanken' or a 'Heurigenschank' closes seasonally.
